

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, Terrance Forbes served as football coach and mentor at Christian County High School from 1989 until 2003 and made a truly lasting impact on countless young men and women through his tough but caring approach, both on and off the field; and

WHEREAS, Terrance was an exemplary colleague and friend as I continued to learn from him while we worked together in the operations division of Hopkinsville's local television station TV-43 in 1993 and 1994; and

WHEREAS, To many, Terrance was a truly great individual – one who was funny, smart, personable, and genuinely cared about people; and

WHEREAS, The citizens of Hopkinsville owe Terrance Forbes a debt of gratitude for his unfailing dedication to the betterment of our youth and greater community; and

WHEREAS, During this difficult time, we also extend our deepest sympathies and prayers of support to his loved ones – friends, family, and especially to his five beautiful children whom he cherished.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Carter M. Hendricks, Mayor of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, hereby officially proclaim today as in honor of his exemplary career as a coach and mentor and in appreciation for his outstanding and meritorious service to the community.

TERRANCE FORBES DAY

This 4th day of February 2017.

---

Carter M. Hendricks, Mayor
City of Hopkinsville, Kentucky